Châteauneuf-du-Pape (CdP) has long been one of our favorite wine regions and the the 2007 vintage generated lots of excitement as the "vintage of a lifetime". We're therefore very excited to offer a tasting of this exceptional vintage. We have structured this tasting to capture the diversity of wine-making styles that have developed in the appellation. Modern vintners are using more oak, including some who use new oak even for their grenache. An intermediate (called progressive) approach is to only use neutral oak for grenache and a bit of new oak for some of the other varieties, whereas traditional vintners use whole cluster fermentation (including stems) in cement tanks, with only well-used large oak foudres used for aging. The timing should be perfect; the modern-style wines should be mature and the traditional-style should be just waking up. We'll provide some classic stewed meats that should pair perfectly with CdP. This will be a great way to learn about this fantastic appellation.

Flight 1: Modern Style - Grapes de-stemmed, liberal use of new oak.
Paul Autard Châteauneuf-du-Pape

Flight 3: Traditional Style - Grapes not de-stemmed, fermentation in cement or stainless tanks, aging in large neutral barrels (foudres).

Domaine de Villeneuve "Vieilles Vignes"
Bosquet des Paper "Chante le Merle"

Flight 2: Progressive Style - Grapes mostly de-stemmed, no oak for grenache, but small barrels used for syrah/mourvedré.
